Charles County Court,

August Term 1816.

On application to Charles County Court by petition in writing of John Budd, of Charles County, for the benefit of the act of assembly for the relief of sundry insolvent debtors, passed at November session 1805, & the several supplements thereto, on the terms mentioned therein; a schedule of his property and a list of his creditors on oath, as far as he can ascertain them, accompanying his petition; and the court being satisfied by competent testimony, that the said John Budd has resided two years immediately preceding the time of his application, in the state of Maryland: It is thereupon ordered and adjudged, that the said John Budd, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some one of the newspapers edited in the district of Columbia, once a week for two months, before the third Monday in March next, give notice to his creditors to APPEAR before the said court at the court house in Charlestown on the said third Monday in March next for the purpose of recommending a trustee for their benefit, and to shew cause if any they have, why the said John Budd should not have the benefit of the act of assembly aforesaid, and the several supplements thereto, as prayed.

The Life of Patrick Henry.

PROPOSAL

By James Webster, of Philadelphia, for publishing by Subscription,

THE LIFE OF

The late Patrick Henry,

Containing many of his Speeches, &c. Embellished with a Likeness: By Wm. Wirt, Esq. of Richmond, (Va.)

Extract from the Port Folio for August 1815.

"It is not without a sentiment of sincere gratification that we witness, in the following proposal, arrangements making by a competent hand, to do justice to the character of one of the most worthy and distinguished of our countrymen. As a statesman, a civilian, an orator and a patriot, Patrick Henry was entitled to stand in the foremost rank: Nor do his merits claim an inferior station as a firm, an honest, and an honorable man. He was one of those worthies on whose purity suspicion could never fix a stain.

"If nature did much for Mr. Henry's character while living, accident has not been wanting in its favors to his posthumous fame: for to have found such a biographer as Mr. Wirt, so competent as a writer, and so peculiarly well qualified in every moral relation, is not the least fortunate incident in his history.

"In Mr. Wirt's Life of Patrick Henry we are irresistably impelled to expect much: the materials being excellent, and in great abundance, and the writer able and devoted to his subject. Nor do we think that the public will run any risk of being disappointed by bearing us company in our high expectations. We hope, and, indeed, have no doubt that the work will receive a liberal patronage."

CONDITIONS.

The work will be printed on a fine paper, in one octavo volume, and will contain from 350 to 400 pages.

It will be delivered to subscribers, in good calf binding, at three dollars per copy. The price to non subscribers will be three dollars and fifty cents.

☞ Subscriptions are received by

Fifty Dollars Reward.

Hill and Dale, Fred. County, Virginia, December 30.

Absconded from this plantation on the night of the 24th instant, without the smallest provocation or known cause, a very black young man, named supposed to be about twenty two or twenty three years of age & about 5 feet 7 or 8 inches high, strong and robust and broad over the shoulders. He had new cloaths of home made cloth fulled, of a drab color, but I have some reason to think he sold them and may appear in what is called his Sunday cloaths, the coat of which is brown cloth pretty much worn, but he has other cloaths and may change them. I will give Fifty Dollars if apprehended out of the state of Virginia, and Twenty five if taken in the state or district of Columbia and brought home to me or lodged in a jail so that I get him again. Masters of vessels are admonished, at their peril, from taking him on board and conveying him away.

PETER,

Fauquier Lands.

THE subscriber offers for sale the Estate whereon he resides in the county of Fiquier, about 8 miles below the court-house, on Cedar Run, between the roads leading to Fredericksburgh and Occoquan, 30 miles distant from either place, and 40 to Alexandria by the turnpike, from Buckland. The tract is computated at three thousand three hundred and seventy Acres, and is divided into three farms, with Woodland and Meadows, conveniently distributed for each. There is a Valuable Mill Seat,

with stone on the spot for building—The stream is abundant, and waters the whole tract: presenting an extent of

Four or five hundred Acres of Low Grounds of first quality.—The high land is well divided into regular fields, some of them very productive, and is adapted to the use of Plaister. Few tracts can possess greater advantages either for extensive grazing or grain culture.

The purchaser or purchasers of the land, can be accommodated with the farming utensils, the crops of Corn and the sown Wheat—the stock of Cattle, Horses, Sheep and Hogs; and with the Negroes on the estate in families, making about 150, of a very valuable description, with some tradesmen.

The improvements are a comfortable Dwelling House, with good out Houses, Ice House, Stables, &c. The situation is healthy and the water uncommonly good. Two thirds of the whole purchase money will be required at the delivery of the property, the balance in short payments with interest and secured by deed of trust.

The Brief Remarker,

He that formed man, and that knew best what was in him and what he was made for, saw it was not good that he should be alone. This single line or sentence confutes the volums of glowing declamation in favor of solitude, or total abstraction from the world. To man the social state is the natural state; it brightens his intellects, expands his heart strengthens his weakness and, multiplies his enjoyments; whereas habitual solitude tends to narrowness of heart and mustiness of temper. Not that it is good to be always in company. That opposite extreme, which so many have run into, is quite as bad as the other. The solitary being who shuns all company, and the empty flutterer who finds no enjoyment out of company, are alike wide of the true mark; which is a due mixture of intervals of well spent solitude, with the business and duties and enjoyments of social life.

As Zoologists tell us, "It has long been observed that those races of animals which live in societies, and under their efforts for the attainment of one common end, exhibit a great superiority of intellectual faculties over those which lead a life of solitude and seclusion; and the observation applies equally to the small as to the larger animals: although among the insect tribes the distincton is most strongly marked." It has also been noticed by several observers, that the gregarious races of animals, in many instances evidently learn of one another, and so come to be more sagacious, and more expert in their operations, by reason of their living in a social state. Young singing birds, for example, are known to improve in voice and skill, by listening to the notes of an old and experienced songster.

In human beings the social affection seems to be nearly co-eval with the first dawn of reason. An infant, not unfrequently has been seen to leap with joy in its mother's arms at the sight of another infant; reaching out its little hands to embrace the stranger. Emulation, also is of the like early growth. Infants that have small children constantly about them, if other things be equal, learn to walk and to speak earlier than those that are confined altogether to the company of grown up people. Equally true is it that both small and large children enjoy themselves a great deal better for being much in the company of their equals. Moreover, it increases the growth and strength of their minds, improves the faculties of their bodies, and furnishes them with a sort of information highly necessary to their childish years.

How much children learn from children is beyond account. It is true that in this way they learn some things which they must be made to unlearn. But that is not so bad as to deaden their faculties and make mopes of them, by debarring them altogether from the society of those of their own age. There is a mixture of good and evil, as in all other human affairs so also in any system of education which human wisdom can devise; that being the most eligible one, in which the good most clearly preponderates; and, upon this principle, to suffer children to enjoy the company of children, and at the same time to keep a watchful eye upon them; is a much better way than wholly to immure them, as some parents have done, either from pride or through fear of contamination.

No topics have been worne more threadbare, than those relating to the comforts and benefits and blessings of society; topics that have been the standing dish from time immemorial; and have been treated of so often, and in some instances so ably, as to preclude almost the possibility of suggesting a single thought upon them that would be altogether new. There is one important particular, however, which seems to have been less heeded than the rest; and that is the salutary restraints which well regulated society imposes upon its members: I mean not the restraints of law, but merely those of opinion.

If there be persons who care not at all what any or all others think of them, their minds are either far above or far below the natural feelings of humanity. Indeed it is more than doubtful whether any persons of this description exist unless amongst the vilest and most abandoned of the species. It is human nature to love esteem and abhor reproach; and for this reason no law has so general influence over civilized man, as the law of Decency: inasmuch as it governs the external conduct or the manners of even those who have little or no regard for moral principle. A sense of shame is one of the most powerful checks upon the atrocious vices which society deem scandalous: so that decency of manners in society is owing not so much to its laws, as to public sentiment or the authority of opinion.

How happens it that they who emigrate from places in which public sentiment is decidedly in favour of the virtues and the decencies of life, and settle themselves down in a solitary situation, or among neighbours of corrupted sentiments; how happens it; that often they are so changed so strangely degenerated in their morals and manners? The reason is, that they have lost or thrown off what had been the main check upon their behaviour. As they are no longer under the stern scrutiizing eye of virtuous society, may no longer scruple to indulge freely the particular propensities of their mind, and sorts.

There are those in private life who are capable of doing nearly if not quite as much good as can be done by legislators and magistrates; they are persons possessed of great or considerable wealth in our country, there is no one thing that confers so much weight of personal influence as riches. The rich if they possess parts withal, have an unrivalled influence upon the morals and manners of society. They are looked up to, they are imitated in things pertaining to manners they take the lead, and have considerably the direction. Happy were it if their influence were always directed to shame vice and to make virtue fashionable.

A curious specimen of Chinese Policy.

Nothing has a greater influence on the Buis of a nation than the example of its rulers. Sensible of this, and aware that the utmost attention to agriculture was required for the sustentation of the vast people he governed, Ven-ti, who reigned in China about one hundred and seventy years before the christian era, engaged his subjects to cultivate the lands by the example of ploughing with his own hands the lands belonging to his palace; strictly enjoining it upon the ministers and men of his court to hold the plough on appointed days. That example of Ven-ti, is said to have been followed by the emperors ever since, and the subordinate orders of course regarding agriculture as an employment honourable and even sacred, pursued it with such eagerness from one generation to another, as that scarcely an accessible spot of ground in that vast empire has been left uncultivated. Dunalde his account of China, says that "what makes the Chinese undergo such incredible fatigues in cultivating the earth is not barely their private interest, but rather the veneration paid to agriculture, and the esteem which the emperors themselves have always had for it from the commencement of the empire."

There is no doubt but this Chinese policy is well suited to the particular circumstances of the Chinese, that in a considerable measure it is owing to it that a territory two thousand miles in length and fifteen hundred in breadth contains a population of nearly three hundred million; a population nearly one third of that of the whole world.

The particular circumstances of other countries render it either impracticable or absurd, to imitate altogether the practice of the Chinese; for instance—with England it would be impracticable, with Mexico it would be absurd. Yet in no country perhaps, except China is agriculture regarded with all that attention and respect which its unmeasurable importance merits.

In England itself, though one of the best cultivated countries in Europe there is a large proportion of uncultivated and wasted lands; and it is the opinion of some of its ablest writers, that the condition of England would have been much better than it now is, if it had employed many thousands of those hands as cultivators, which it has employed in manufacturing for all its neighbors.

The destination of the country we live in evidently seems to be marked out by the finger of heaven. So many fine bays harbours, inlets, and navigable rivers, clearly denote that it was fashioned for the purposes of Navigation and commerce and none but a sickly brain could think of repressing its commerce, or of rendering it wholly agricultural. At the same time it is little obvious to remark, that our main dependence is upon agriculture. It must ever be the main staff of our support, and is in fact the only sure source of wealth.

In this view, the example of the Chinese demands no inconsiderable measure of our imitation. If they have erred in one extreme, we have erred in the opposite extreme. If with them agriculture has been treated with superstitious veneration, with us it has been treated with fastidious neglect. The fields are large, but the laborers are few; these fields demand the labor of thousands and scores of thousands, who are now ready to famish, but are too proud to till them. Capital is vested in almost any thing, rather than employed in improving the soil, and in consequence there is but a very small proportion of even the older parts of this country which can be said to be well cultivated.

ALEXANDRIA.

MONDAY, JANUARY 13.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT AT WASHINGTON.

Jan. 11.

In the representatives the committee on the national currency made a report which was yesterday laid before the house and with it a letter from Mr. Lloyd, late a senator from Massachusetts, and now one of the directors. This letter goes to justify the arrangement made by the bank with the stockholders respecting the payment of the second instalment, about which a resolution was passed by the house, on motion of Mr. Forsyth. The letter and the report were read, and were ordered to be laid upon the table, and printed. Mr. Forsyth declared himself not at all satisfied with either the report or the documents.

A resolution declaring it expedient to reduce the army of the United States was offered by Mr. Cannon, and ordered to be laid on the table.

A bill appropriating 400,000 dollars for the army for the year 1817, was then brought up by Mr. Lowndes, as chairman of the committee of ways and means, and passed through a committee of the whole. Mr. Clay, the Speaker, rose to enquire whether the committee of ways and means, or the military committee, had taken any steps to investigate the causes of the very extraordinary military expenditures of this country, which he described as being greater, relation being had to the extent of the service, than those of any country in the world. Four millions annually he stated to be the expenditure, while the army consisted of only 7500 or at most 8000 men; he wished that extraordinary fact to be enquired into and explained.

Mr. Randolph said, it was not long since one of his colleagues had stated, that the army cost 900 dollars a man, and he had heard, that even at a time when the vessels were laid up the navy cost at the rate of 1000 dollars. Mr. Lowndes said, that the committee of ways & means had not been inattentive to the business, and was doing something towards retrenchment, & and Mr. Johnson, declaring himself a friend to economy and inquiry, recounted several heads of service which from the circumstances of the waste and confusion of war, had been for the time inordinately expensive, and one, viz. the Indian department, was extremely chargeable and did not enter into the military expences of any other country.—The bill was reported and afterwards concurred in by the house.

The weary claim bill then was brought up, and after agreeing to two amendments and refusing several others, none of them however so interesting as to demand particular notice here, was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time this day.

A bill from the Senate requiring the directors of the U. S. Bank to establish an office of discount and deposit in the District of Columbia, was read twice and committted.

We have lately had some commercial disputes with the Dutch, who are in general a very cautious people; and, if slow in their movements, have been considered as worthy of confidence and reliance. It appears that the Dutch East India Company ships were detained for an unusual length of time, so as to lessen the quantity of teas in market. Intimation of this scarcity reached the Americans, who are always prompt on these occasions and prepared to supply deficiencie without a reference to the cause, and the Dutch East India Company invited them into their ports in order to procure the necessary supplies. In the mean time, some of the Dutch ships arrived, and then the sales of the Americans were suspended, who very justly complained of this conduct, as a breach of faith.

The Dutch government, in reply, reminds them that "charity begins at home," and, further declares, that they gave no permission to land the cargoes. The ports are just commencing to resume the commercial enterprise of which they had for a long time been deprived, and this circumstance of clashing with them in the East India trade will serve to create a necessary caution hereafter. To use a seaman's phrase, we must not permit the Dutch "to get to the windward of us," in this manner.

Washington Gazette.

Extract of a letter from Havanna, to a respectable house in Baltimore, dated Dec. 23d.

"Flour is down again to $ 25 and sales very dull."

Prices current at Laguira, Dec. 3, 1816.

Blue baftas or blue emerties, 12 to 14 yards, $ 8 a 9; white baftas or emerties, do 5 a 6; checks, 8 a 10 yards, 3; short yellow nankeens, 1 25.

A letter from Kingston, Jamaica, of Nov. 27, states, that one or two vessels, from the United States, had narrowly escaped seizure, in consequence of having on board apples and onions, these articles not being enumerated in the list allowed to be imported. The duties on imports so that is said had recently been reduced 25 per cent.

We yesterday copied from the New York papers an article stating the price of flour at Gibraltar to be 16 dollars a barrel. We have now before us a letter from a highly respectable house in Gibraltar to their correspondent in this city, dated Nov. 14. in which it is said—"Flour of the best quality is now selling out of store at 12 dollars, and inferior sorts for which 6 dollars could not be obtained two months ago, are now current at 8 a 9. We do not however imagine that a cargo of Philadelphia or Baltimore could be sold on board for more than 10 a 10 50 per barrel."

NEW-YORK, Jan 8.

The editors of the Gazette are indebted to the father of a distinguished officer in our navy, for the subsequent extract:

Extract of a letter from an officer of the Navy, dated Gibraltar Bay, Nov. 8. 1816. received by the Chauncey.

"Our affairs are unsettled with Algiers, and until that business be arranged, it is not probable the force here will be diminished. Algiers shews marks of British vengeance, but the Dey is a remarkable man. He possesses intrepidity, firmness of character, and industry, and with the exception of his fleet, is as formidable as ever; and by the Spring will be more so. We proceed up the Mediterranean in a few days."

VERY INTERESTING ADDITIONS TO NATIONAL HISTORY.

The political employment of our citizens contributes in an eminent degree to the increase of our knowledge. Colonel Samuel Hawkins, agent for the commissioners to settle the boundary line with the British, has brought many things from the north-western regions he has visited, among others, there are two of great importance to be well understood. One is a parcel of the seeds of the tausse avoine (false oats) or wild rice of the lakes, called by botanists, Zizania Aquatica. The grain which col. H. has brought is in the husky state, in the naked condition stripped of the husk; and in the form it assume by maceration in a kaline ley for human food. In this latter preparation it some times resembles maize, and is considerably associated to rice, partaking of the good qualities of both. This important plant deserves to be domesticated; it already affords a spontaneous harvest to the natives. There can be no doubt the Zizania will be the bread corn of the future white inhabitants bordering on Huron, Michigan and their tributary waters. This enterprizing gentleman is entitled to the thanks of his countrymen for introducing among them a grain of such high value and excellence for increasing the nourishment and sustaining the vigor of man. It is so extensive in use that the numerous tribes who live upon it were originally named by the French colonists, fausses avoines, an appellation they bear to the present day.

The same gentlemen has also presented to the New Yorkers a treat they never had until now, the famous white fish of the lakes. He and major Robertdeau brought an actual specimen in good order from the foot of the falls of St. May, at the outlet of lake Superior. On examination, this delicious animal, the pride of the lakes, turns out to be the toothless salmon (saumon edentuee) of a kindred species to that which governor Frederick sent some years ago from Surinam to Europe. Remarkable to tell, in the lakes of North America is a fish of a kindred species, with a mouth as unarmed as that of a herring, with a skin and scales as bright and shining as those of a shad, and with every other mark and character of a true salmon. The scientific and epicurean world owe to col. H. their hearty thanks for the treat of the fish itself, and for the means of describing and classing it according to the rules of ichthyology. What a theme of contemplation are the fisheries of the lakes!

Newport, Dec 26.

A new discovery of the value of Carrots.

This root, although but little thought of by some, is well known by many far to exceed all others in value, to fatten horses, cows, and sheep, and if boiled and pounded with meal, is worth at least one third more per bushel than potatoes, for fattening hogs. They have also been proved to exceed all other roots in making puddings; but of late have been tried with the greatest satisfaction with barley meal, although in great demand, yet unfortunate it is, that with most persons it produces the heart burn, or sour stomach. Take good sweet carrots, boil them soft and pound them very fine with barley meal, with considerable fine salt, and bake it before the fire in cakes, and it will completely prevent the sour stomach and heart burn, and give a sweetness to your bread, of which the barley of itself entirely destitute. It will bear to be nearly one half carrots.

A JEST.

In a conversation between Mr. Burke and Dr. Beattie, on the word Majesty, Mr. B. satirically remarked, "strip majesty of its exteriors, the first and last letters, and it becomes a jest."

HYMN.

Composed for the Dedication of St. Johns Church, Dec. 27th, 1816.

By B. D. Lathrope.

I.

God of power! God of love!
Earth thy footstool, Heav'n thy throne!
From thy seat of bliss above,
Bow thine ear in mercy down!
Thou, who dwell'st in endless space,
Fill the house, we now prepare,
With thy presence and thy grace,
Hear, oh, hear thy people's prayer!

II.

Vainly human power essays,
Vainly toils the artist's skill,
Worthily a shrine to raise,
Which thy majesty may fill.
But where in thy sacred name
Two or three assembled are,
They may thy sure promise claim,
Thou wilt hear their humble prayer.

III.

Once o'er all this favor'd land,
Savage wilds and darkness spread;
Shelter'd now by thy kind hand,
Cheerful dwellings rear their head.
Where once frown'd the tangled wood,
Fertile fields and meadows smile;
Where the stake of torture stood,
Rises now thy Church's pile.

IV.

Where the arrow's vengeful flight
Sex, age, nor childhood spar'd;
Reason was right,
Where thy gospel's sound is heard!
Hear'd alas! too oft in vain.
Yet with mild prevail ng force,
Spreads its love diffusing reign.
Nor can aught impede its course.

V.

Where the hostile firebrand's flash
Reddened, late the midnight air,
And the falling column's crash
Drown'd the cry of wild despair;
There whose nod the storms obey,
Midst the wreck of blazing domes,
Bade't the foe his fury stay,
And respect our private homes.

VI.

For these wonders of thy grace,
See us bow the grateful knee
And with this thy holy place,
Consecrate ourselves to thee
And, when in this Temple's bound,
To thy altar we repair,
Breathe thy healing presence round,
Hear, oh hear, thy people's pray'r

JAMES KENNEDY & SON,

BOOKSELLERS, KING STREET,

Have just received from LEE'S PA TENT MEDICINE Store. No. 46 Maiden Lane, N. York.

A FRESH SUPPLY

Of the following genuine Medicines.

For the prevention and cure of Bilious and Malignant Fevers, is recommended

Hahn's Anti-Bilious Pills

THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly gratefu to the inventor's feelings, in several par of the West Indies, and the Southern Middle States, particularly in N. Yor Philadelphia, Baltimore, Petersburg Richmond, Norfolk, Edenton, Wilmington, Charleston, and Savannah. Th testimony of a number of persons at eac of the above places can be adduced, wh have reason to believe, that a timely us of this salutary remedy has, under Prov dence, preserved their lives, when i the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than co lumns of pompous eulogy, founded o mere assertion.

It is not, indeed, presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience, for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks, during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventative: and further, that in the earlier stages of those diseases, their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in cases esteemed desperate, and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation, and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile & prevent its morbid secretions—to restore & amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which is often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance—they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—sickness at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

HAMILTON'S WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES.

Which have cured an immense number of persons of both sexes, of every age, and in every situation, of various dangerous complaints arising from worms, and from obstructions or foulness in their stomach and bowels.

This medicine bears no analogy whatever to others of similar titles so commonly complained of, as operating with violence; on the contrary, a particular excellence of this remedy is its being suited to every age and perfectly innocent, and is also mild in its operation, cannot injure the most delicate pregnant lady or the tenderest infant of a week old, should no worms exist in the body: but will, without pain or griping, cleanse the stomach and bowels, of whatever is foul or offensive, and thereby prevent the production of worms, and many fatal disorders. The lozenges are particularly efficacious in carrying off all gross humours and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and are the safest and mildest purgative that can be used on any occasion.

DESCRIPTION OF WORMS.

And the symptoms by which they are known:

Worms which infest the human body are chiefly of four kinds, viz.—The Teres, or large round worm; the Ascarides, or small maw-worm; the Cucurbitina, or short, flat, white worm; and lastly, the Tænia, or tape-worm, so called from its resemblance to tape. This is often many yards long and is full of joints. It is most hurtful and most difficult to remove.

Among the symptoms attending worms are—disagreeable breath, especially in the morning; bad and corrupted gums; itching in the nose, and about the seat; convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes privation of speech; starting and grinding of the teeth in sleep; irregular appetite, sometimes loathing food, and sometimes voracious; purging, with slimy & fetid stools; vomiting; large and hard belly; pains and sickness at the stomach; slow fever, with small and irregular palsey; a dry cough; excessive thirst; sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face bloated and flushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms, should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges, which have been constantly attended with success, in all complaints similar to those above described.

A dose of this medicine given occasionally during the warm season, will effectually prevent the vomiting and purging of chuldren—a dreadful disease, which annually destroys the hand of the infant part of our citizens likewise the mildest and most certain remedy known, and has restored to health and strength a great number even in an advanced stage of this fatal complaint. Particular and plain instructions are given for every part of the necessary treatment in such cases.

Children generally take this medicine with eagerness; having a pleasing appearance, and an agreeable taste.

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.

A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout asthmatic gout, palsy, lumbagoo, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc.

The Genuine Persian Lotion.

So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellant minerals (the basis of other lotions) and of unparralled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples inflamatory redness, scurfs, tetters, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c. The Persian Lotion operates mildly, without impeding the natural, insensible perspiration, which is essential to health, yet its effects are speedy and permanent, rendering the skin delicately soft and smooth and improving the complexion.

The Restorative Powder for the Teeth and Gums

This excellent preparation comforts and strengthens the gums, preserves the enamel from decay, and cleanses and whitens the teeth, by absorbing all the acrimonious slime and foulness, which suffered to accumulate, never fails to injure and finally ruin them.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative.

Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of the various complaints resulting from dissipated pleasures, gave indiscretions, residence in climates unfavorable to the constitution, the immoderate use of tea, frequent inoxication any other destructive intemperance or unskilful or excessive use of mercury, the diseases peculiar to females at certain period of life, bad lyings in, &c.

HAMILTON'S ELIXIR.

Sovereign remedy for Colds, obstinate Coughs, Asthmas, sore throats, and approaching Consumptions, and most disorders of the breast and lungs.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water.

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of natural weakness or of accident.

Toothe Ache Drops.

The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.

Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Lee's Infallibe Ague and Fever Drops.

For the cure of agues, remittent, and intermittent fevers.

Han's true & genuine German Corn Plaister.

☞ At the place of sale pamphlets may be had gratis, describing cures performed by the above medicines; the number, importance and respectability of which, fully justify every article of this advertisement.

Land for Sale.

I will sell my tract of Land situate in Prince William County, Virginia, containing 500 acres, two thirds of which is in wood, and the remainder in meadow and arable land. This land lies contiguous to the lands of the late Richard Brent and Colonel Gerard Alexander, and in the immediate vicinity of three merchant mills. There are on the premises several stone quarries of excellent building stone, and it is believed there is a bed of iron ore on one part of the farm.

The improvements are an overseer's house, granaries and other out houses—timber has been prepared for building a dwelling house which may likewise be had.

The purchaser can also be accommodated with about twenty NEGROES, among which are a carpenter, a good cook and excellent seamstress: the others are working hands—together with horses, cattle, sheep, & farming utensils of every description. There are on the premises an excellent orchard of peach and plumb trees and common apples.

A long credit will be given to the purchaser, on giving good security and paying the interest punctually.
